

Deep in the woods between the rocks and trees
where the leaves were green and yellow, lived Wallow the Bear, unfortunately,
a quite gloomy fellow.

The funny thing was, and a tradition it became,
Wallow always got sad when it started to rain.
One morning, between the wooded pines and murky pond,
Wallow saw a rainstorm rolling along.

