

Paisley bounced out of bed
and hopped down the hall.

“Today I go to Big Bunny School!”

Pip skipped behind her.
“Big skoo!”

“Paisley, you’re still in Bunnygarten,” said Mama.
“And no school for you yet, Pip.”

“But today is my birthday. I’m a big bunny now.”
“Yes, but you’ll start Big Bunny School next fall with your friends.”
“Oh.”

At circle time, Paisley said,
“I’m a big bunny now. I can read.”
She read I and can. She read be and big. Then she tried bunny
and soon, but she sputtered.

Maybe it’s not my birthday,
thought Paisley.
