

It's early in the morning.
The moon quickly puts on her jacket.
Time to go, because the sun will soon rise.

On top of the tower house, the rooster crows:
"Cock-a-doodle-doo! Get out of your beds!
Cock-a-doodle-doo!"

Matteo jumps out of bed. He's happy.
Today's going to be a great day!
But there's still so much to do . . .

Cock-a-doodle-doo! Get out of your beds! Cock-a-doodle-doo!

GOOD MORNING, SLEEPYHEADS!

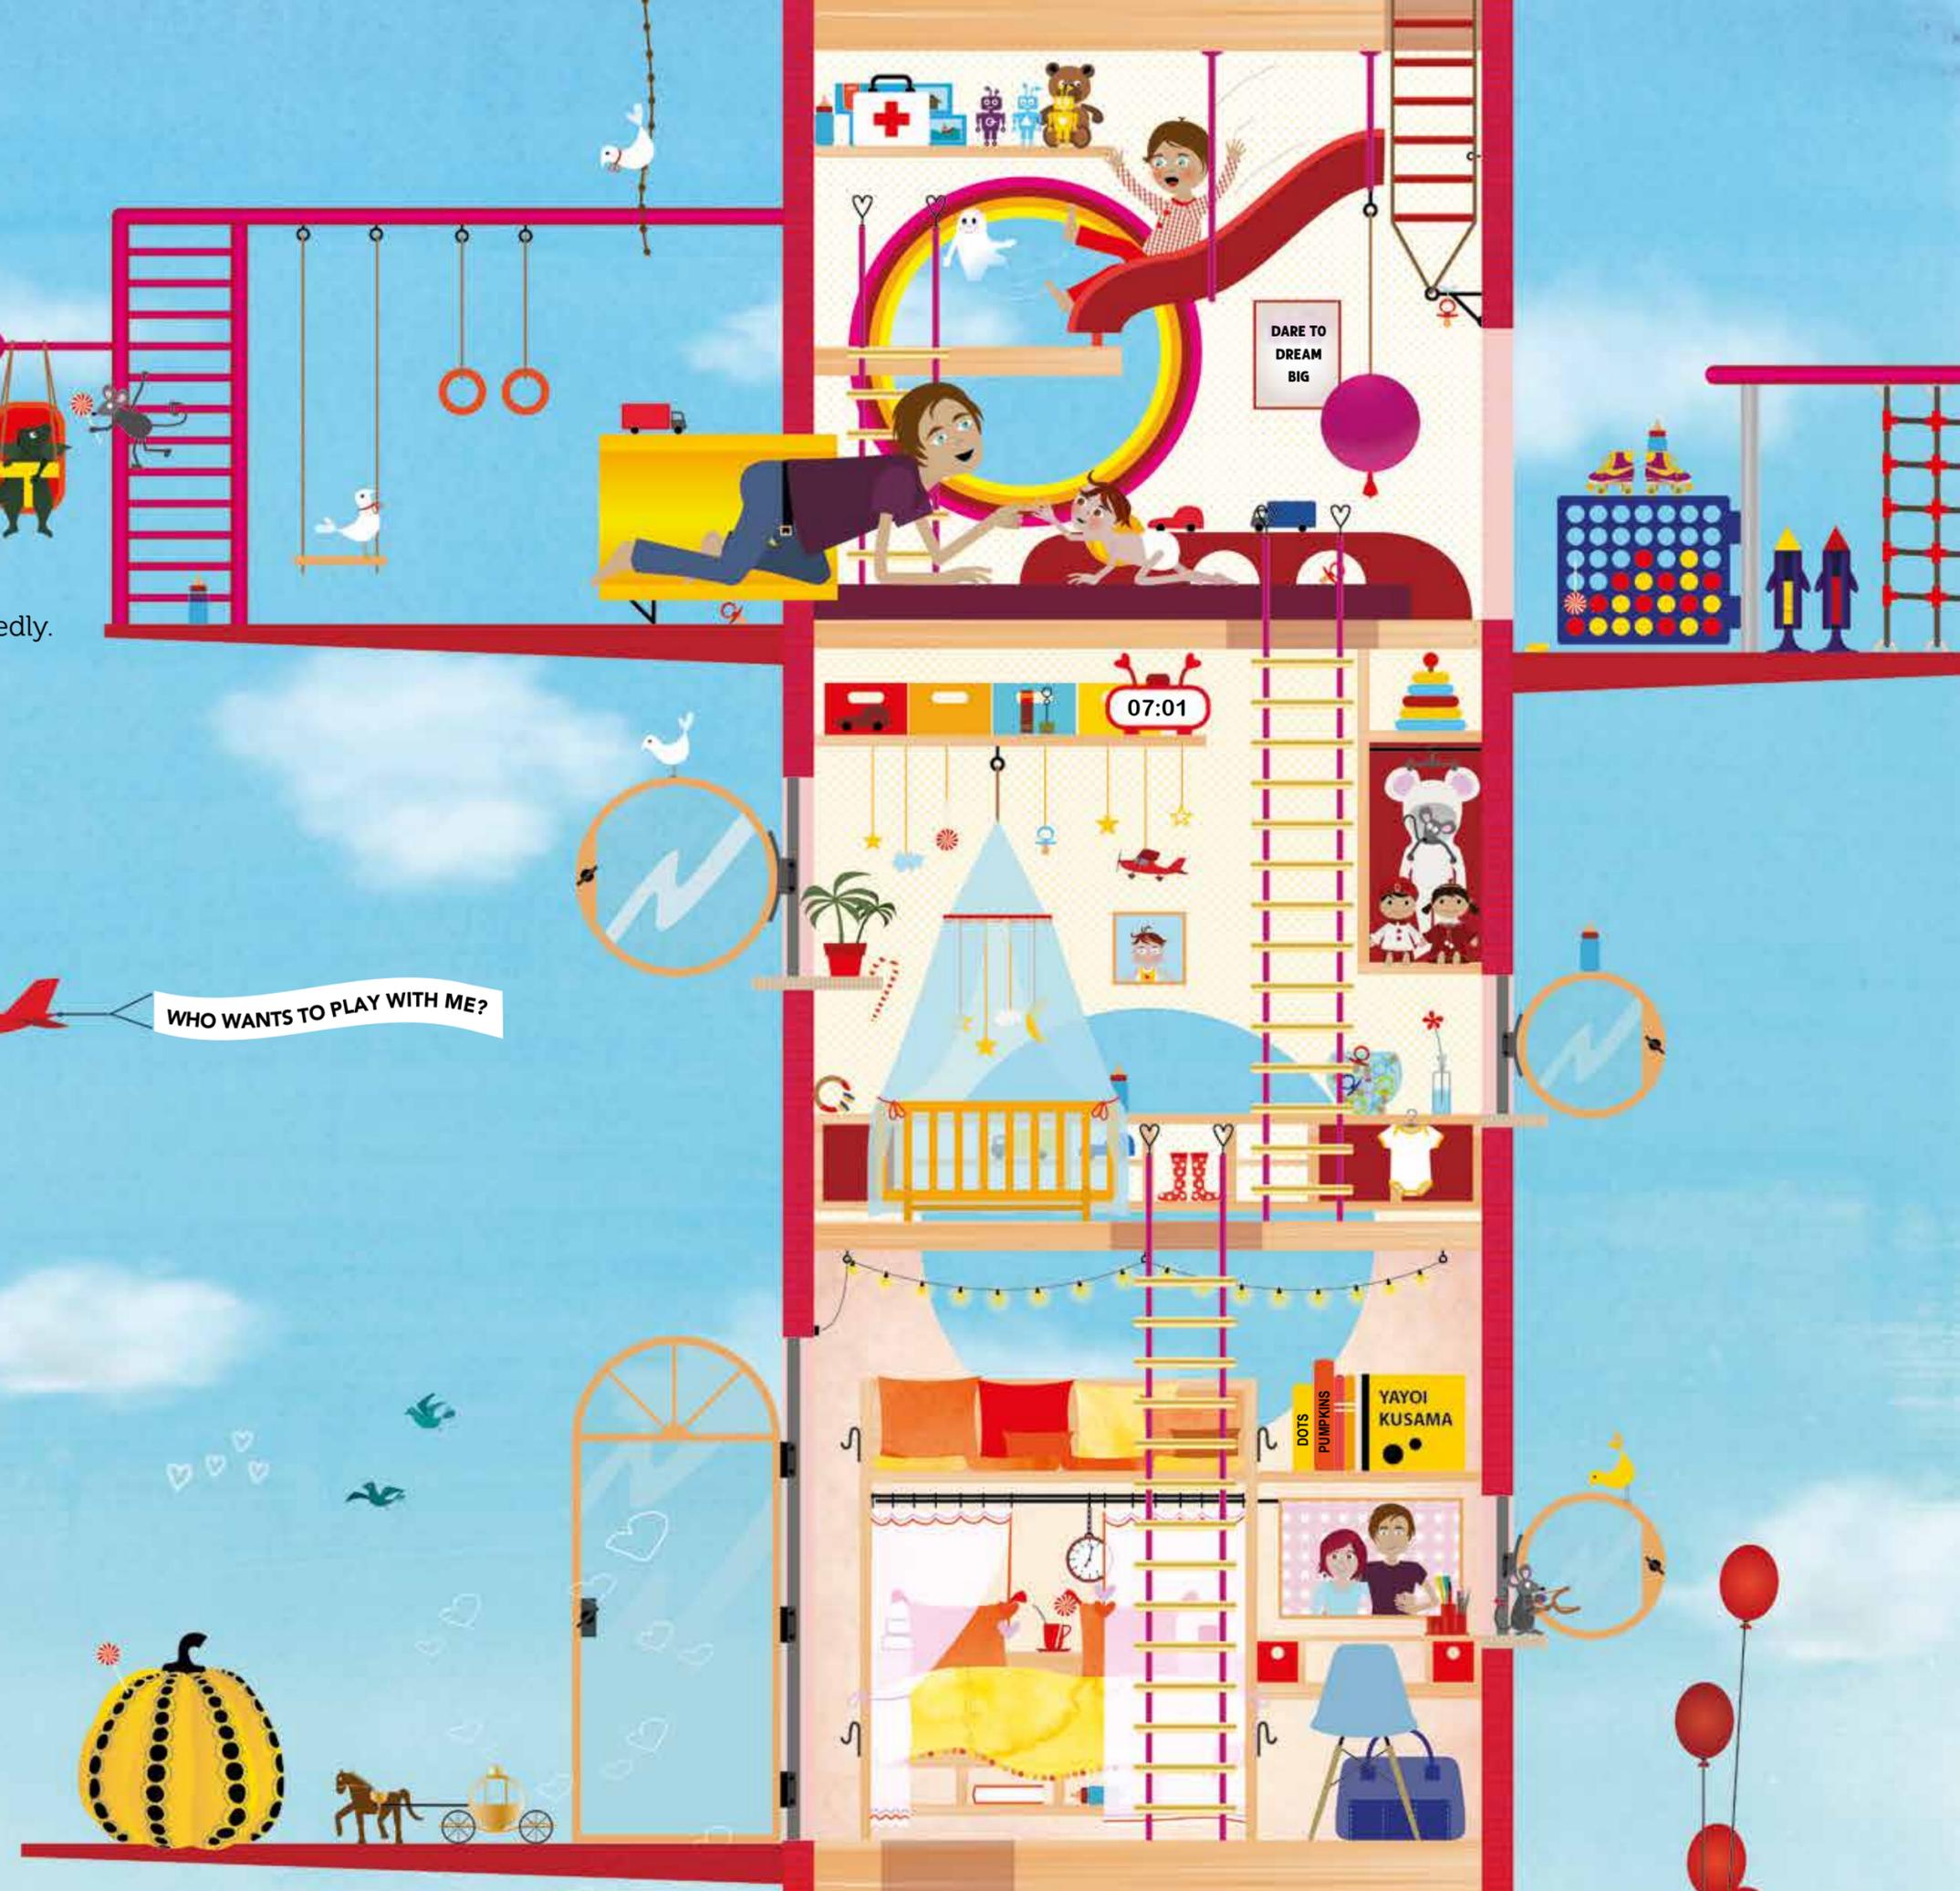

Matteo slides down the slide.

"Daddy, Daddy! Let's go out!" Matteo shouts excitedly.

"But Matteo," Dad sighs, "it's way too early. And I still have a lot to do. If you give me a hand, we can leave faster. Okay? Here's what I need for your little brother..."
