

The Development of European Private Law in a Multilevel Legal Order

Esther
van Schagen

The Development of European Private Law in a Multilevel Legal Order

Intersentia Ltd
Sheraton House | Castle Park
Cambridge | CB3 0AX | United Kingdom
Tel.: +44 1223 370 170 | Fax: +44 1223 370 169
Email: mail@intersentia.co.uk
www.intersentia.com | www.intersentia.co.uk

Distribution for the UK and Ireland:

NBN International
Airport Business Centre, 10 Thornbury Road
Plymouth, PL6 7 PP
United Kingdom
Tel.: +44 1752 202 301 | Fax: +44 1752 202 331
Email: orders@nbninternational.com

Distribution for Europe and all other countries:

Intersentia Publishing nv
Groenstraat 31
2640 Mortsel
Belgium
Tel.: +32 3 680 15 50 | Fax: +32 3 658 71 21
Email: mail@intersentia.be

Distribution for the USA and Canada:

International Specialized Book Services
920 NE 58th Ave. Suite 300
Portland, OR 97213
USA
Tel.: +1 800 944 6190 (toll free) | Fax: +1 503 280 8832
Email: info@isbs.com

The Development of European Private Law in a Multilevel Legal Order

© Esther van Schagen 2016

The author has asserted the right under the Copyright, Designs and Patents Act 1988, to be identified as author of this work.

No part of this book may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system, or transmitted, in any form, or by any means, without prior written permission from Intersentia, or as expressly permitted by law or under the terms agreed with the appropriate reprographic rights organisation. Enquiries concerning reproduction which may not be covered by the above should be addressed to Intersentia at the address above.

Cover image: © Pitju – Thinkstock

ISBN 978-1-78068-367-6
D/2016/7849/8
NUR 822

British Library Cataloguing in Publication Data. A catalogue record for this book is available from the British Library.

CONTENTS

Chapter 1.

Introduction	1
1.1. Introduction	1
1.2. Multilevel governance	3
1.3. Pluralism	5
1.4. Multilevel governance and pluralist perspectives compared	8
1.5. Detrimental coexistence: Multilevel governance, interdependence and methodological nationalism	11
1.6. Beneficial coexistence: Pluralist perspectives	16
1.7. The need for deliberation	17
1.8. Limitations	22
1.9. Outlook	24
1.10. Methodology	25

Chapter 2.

Predictability, Consistency, Accessibility and Responsiveness	27
2.1. Introduction	27
2.2. Benchmarks for good law	28
2.3. Benchmarks for European private law	29
2.4. Legal certainty	29
2.4.1. Predictability	30
2.4.2. Accessibility	32
2.4.3. Consistency	33
2.4.4. Overlaps between predictability, consistency and accessibility	35
2.5. Responsiveness	35
2.5.1. Private law should be responsive to society's legal views on justice	38
2.5.2. Private law should be responsive to practice	42
2.5.3. Relations between responsiveness and legal certainty	43
2.6. Justice, legitimacy, coherence, and legal equality	45
2.6.1. Justice	46
2.6.2. Legitimacy	47

2.6.3. Coherence.....	49
2.6.4. Legal equality.....	51
2.6.5. Just, legitimate, coherent and equal European private law?.....	53
2.7. Conclusion.....	56

Chapter 3.

Studying Interdependence in the Law on STCs	57
--	-----------

3.1. Introduction	57
3.2. Coexistence of actors developing the law on STCs	59
3.3. Multilevel governance perspectives.....	62
3.4. Pluralist perspectives	63
3.5. Conclusion and outlook.....	66

Chapter 4.

The Development of the Law on Allgemeine Geschäftsbedingungen.....	69
--	-----------

4.1. Introduction	69
4.2. The law on Allgemeine Geschäftsbedingungen	69
4.3. The development of the law on STCs through the BGB.....	71
4.3.1. Codification or Sonderprivatrecht ?	71
4.3.1.1. A national choice for Sonderprivatrecht	71
4.3.1.2. Comparative law and the continued existence of Sonderprivatrecht	74
4.3.1.3. The Schuldrechtsreform and the choice for incorporation ...	76
4.3.1.4. Conclusion on the choice for codification.....	80
4.3.2. The existence of well-developed legislation and harmonisation.....	81
4.3.2.1. The debate in the development of the Directive.....	81
4.3.2.2. The implementation of the Directive	82
4.3.2.3. The application of the Directive by the courts	86
4.3.2.4. The discussion on the revision of Directive 93/13	89
4.3.2.5. Conclusion on the development of German law on STCs and harmonisation	93
4.3.3. German law on STCs and international trade.....	94
4.3.3.1. Regulatory competition	95
4.3.3.1.1. Regulatory competition: undesirable in the law on STCs	95
4.3.3.1.2. Interaction with non-state actors.....	96
4.3.3.1.3. The private initiative for regulatory competition .	97
4.3.3.1.4. Conclusion on regulatory competition.....	100
4.3.3.2. The interpretation of international contracts.....	102
4.3.3.2.1. Negotiating STCs	102
4.3.3.2.2. The valid inclusion of STCs.....	104
4.3.3.2.3. Adequately making STCs available	106

4.3.3.2.4.	The interpretation of clauses in international contracts	109
4.3.3.2.5.	Conclusion on the interpretation of international contracts	111
4.3.3.3.	Conclusion on the development of German law and international trade	112
4.3.4.	Conclusion on the development of the law on STCs through the BGB . .	112
4.4.	Blanket clauses	114
4.4.1.	Competence to interpret blanket clauses	114
4.4.1.1.	The CJEU on the competence to interpret article 3 Directive 93/13	114
4.4.1.2.	The BGH and the interpretation of article 307 BGB	117
4.4.1.3.	Conclusion on the competence to interpret blanket clauses . .	121
4.4.2.	Model lists	122
4.4.2.1.	The development of the German and European model lists	122
4.4.2.2.	The implementation of the European model list	123
4.4.2.3.	The application of the European model list by the German courts	126
4.4.2.3.1.	The approach of the BGH towards the European model list	126
4.4.2.3.2.	The approach of lower courts: referring to the Directive	129
4.4.2.3.3.	Conclusion on the application of the European model list by German courts	133
4.4.2.4.	Conclusion on the development of the law on STCs through model lists	133
4.4.3.	The evaluation of clauses in international contracts	134
4.4.3.1.	The evaluation of international business contracts	134
4.4.3.1.1.	Preliminary questions: comprehensive international regimes?	135
4.4.3.1.2.	The evaluation of clauses under the Montréal Convention	136
4.4.3.1.3.	The evaluation of clauses under the CMR	138
4.4.3.1.4.	The evaluation of clauses under the CISG and German law	139
4.4.3.1.5.	Conclusion on the evaluation of clauses in international business contracts	141
4.4.3.2.	The evaluation of clauses in international consumer contracts	141
4.4.3.3.	The evaluation of clauses in domestic business contracts . .	144
4.4.3.4.	Conclusion on the evaluation of clauses in international contracts	145
4.4.4.	Conclusion on the development of the law on STCs through blanket clauses	146
4.5.	Principles	147
4.5.1.	The development of the German law on STCs	148
4.5.2.	The development of the European law on the basis of principles? . . .	150

4.5.3.	Principles underlying the development of the law on STCs: similarities	155
4.5.4.	Principles underlying the development of the law on STCs: divergences.	156
4.5.5.	Conclusion on principles underlying the law on STCs.	160
4.6.	Conclusion on the development of the law on STCs through national techniques	161
4.6.1.	The development of the law on STCs and insights from multilevel governance.	161
4.6.2.	The development of the law on STCs and pluralist insights	164
4.6.3.	Facilitating deliberation?	167
4.7.	The use of additional or alternative techniques.	169
4.7.1.	Techniques to support the legislative process	171
4.7.2.	The development of the DCFR	173
4.7.2.1.	The DCFR and the private law acquis	173
4.7.2.2.	The DCFR and national practice.	177
4.7.2.3.	The DCFR and other soft laws.	178
4.7.2.4.	Conclusion on the DCFR as an additional technique	180
4.7.3.	Techniques in addition to blanket clauses	180
4.7.3.1.	The use of self-regulation	181
4.7.3.2.	The use of lower regulation	181
4.7.3.3.	Conclusion on the use of techniques in addition to blanket clauses	183
4.7.4.	Studying the use of STCs.	183
4.7.5.	Optional regimes.	184
4.7.6.	Collectively negotiating STCs for cross-border trade.	186
4.7.7.	Conclusion on the use of additional and alternative techniques.	187
4.8.	Conclusion.	188

Chapter 5.

The Development of the Law on Algemene Voorwaarden. 191

5.1.	Introduction	191
5.2.	The law on algemene voorwaarden	191
5.3.	The development of the law on STCs through the BW.	194
5.3.1.	The choice for codification	195
5.3.2.	Replacing self-regulation through the BW	198
5.3.3.	The development of Dutch law and harmonisation	200
5.3.3.1.	The drafting of Directive 93/13	201
5.3.3.2.	The implementation of Directives affecting the law on STCs	203
5.3.3.3.	The application of Directives by the courts	207
5.3.3.4.	The attempted reform of Directive 93/13.	211
5.3.3.5.	The revision of the law on STCs at a national level	216
5.3.3.6.	Conclusion on the development of Dutch law and harmonisation	221

5.3.4.	Dutch law on STCs and international trade	222
5.3.4.1.	Regulatory competition	223
5.3.4.2.	The interpretation of international contracts	225
5.3.4.2.1.	The valid inclusion of STCs.	225
5.3.4.2.2.	Making STCs adequately available	231
5.3.4.2.3.	The interpretation of clauses.	234
5.3.4.2.4.	Conclusion on the interpretation of international contracts.	236
5.3.4.3.	Conclusion on the development of Dutch law and international trade.	236
5.3.5.	Conclusion on the development of the law on STCs through the BW . . .	237
5.4.	Blanket clauses	239
5.4.1.	The development of the law through article 6:233 sub a BW.	239
5.4.1.1.	The drafting of article 6:233 sub a BW.	239
5.4.1.2.	Interaction between the judiciary in the interpretation of article 6:233 sub a BW	241
5.4.1.3.	Conclusion on the development of the law through article 6:233 sub a BW.	251
5.4.2.	Model lists	252
5.4.2.1.	The drafting of model lists	252
5.4.2.2.	The interpretation of articles 6:236 and 237 BW	253
5.4.2.3.	Conclusion on model lists	260
5.4.3.	The evaluation of clauses in international and domestic business contracts.	260
5.4.3.1.	Applicable regimes	261
5.4.3.2.	The evaluation of clauses under the Montréal Convention . . .	262
5.4.3.3.	The evaluation of clauses under the CMR.	262
5.4.3.4.	The evaluation of clauses in international contracts under Dutch law	263
5.4.3.5.	The evaluation of domestic “black” and “grey” clauses under Dutch law	265
5.4.3.6.	Conclusion on the evaluation of clauses in international contracts	266
5.4.4.	Conclusion on blanket clauses	267
5.5.	Principles	270
5.5.1.	The development of the Dutch law on STCs on the basis of principles . .	270
5.5.2.	Principles underlying the law on STCs: similarities	272
5.5.3.	Principles underlying the law on STCs: divergences.	272
5.5.4.	Conclusion on principles underlying the law on STCs.	273
5.6.	Conclusion on the development of the law on STCs through national techniques	273
5.6.1.	The development of the law on STCs and multilevel governance insights	274
5.6.2.	The development of the law on STCs and pluralist insights	277
5.6.3.	Facilitating deliberation?	281

5.7.	Additional and alternative techniques	284
5.7.1.	Techniques supporting the European legislative process.	285
5.7.2.	The development of the DCFR	287
5.7.2.1.	Divergences between the DCFR, the acquis , and other soft laws.	288
5.7.2.2.	The DCFR and national practice.	290
5.7.2.3.	Conclusion on the use of the DCFR as an additional technique.	291
5.7.3.	Techniques in addition to blanket clauses	291
5.7.3.1.	Comitology.	291
5.7.3.2.	Guidance.	293
5.7.3.3.	The prejudicial procedure	294
5.7.3.4.	Alternative regulation.	296
5.7.3.5.	Conclusion on the use of techniques in addition to blanket clauses	297
5.7.4.	The development of collective negotiations	297
5.7.5.	Conclusion on the use of additional and alternative techniques.	298
5.8.	Conclusion.	299

Chapter 6.

Multilevel Governance and Pluralist Perspectives on the Development of the Law on STCs and European Private Law	303
--	------------

6.1.	Introduction	303
6.2.	Multilevel governance perspectives.	303
6.3.	Pluralist perspectives	311
6.3.1.	Responding to divergent preferences and the development of a system of checks and balances.	311
6.3.2.	Regulatory competition	315
6.3.3.	Opportunities for learning	317
6.3.4.	Pluralist criticism of the state-centric approach	320
6.3.5.	Conclusion on pluralist perspectives.	321
6.4.	Conclusion and outlook.	322

Chapter 7.

Actors Developing Private Law in the German Legal Order	325
--	------------

7.1.	Introduction	325
7.2.	Central questions on the role of state actors and non-state actors	327
7.2.1.	The distinction between law and juridical acts as a basis for binding rules	327
7.2.2.	Problems of Fremdbestimmung	330
7.2.3.	German alternative regulation and constitutional rights	332
7.2.4.	The role of actors under European law	333
7.2.5.	The European view: alternative regulation and fundamental rights?	334

7.2.6.	Comparison	334
7.2.7.	Conclusion on central questions	336
7.3.	State actors	336
7.3.1.	The national legislator and the judiciary	337
7.3.2.	The development of private law beyond the national level	338
7.3.2.1.	European actors developing private law in the German legal order	338
7.3.2.1.1.	The competence of European actors under the TFEU	338
7.3.2.1.2.	The competence of European actors under German constitutional law	341
7.3.2.2.	The role of actors under the TFEU and the GG and interdependence	342
7.3.2.3.	The role of international actors	344
7.3.3.	Conclusion on state actors	345
7.4.	State actors and non-state actors: co-regulation	346
7.4.1.	Referral	346
7.4.1.1.	Instances of referral to privately drafted rules	346
7.4.1.2.	The role of non-state actors in instances of dynamic referral	350
7.4.1.3.	The development of control mechanisms	351
7.4.1.4.	Comparison	352
7.4.2.	Collective agreements	353
7.4.2.1.	Tarifverträge (TVs), Betriebsvereinbarungen (BVs) and framework agreements	353
7.4.2.2.	The role of non-state actors	356
7.4.2.3.	The development of control mechanisms	358
7.4.2.4.	Comparison	361
7.4.3.	Conclusion on state actors and non-state actors	361
7.5.	Non-state actors	363
7.5.1.	Contractual self-regulation	364
7.5.1.1.	The role of individual contract parties	365
7.5.1.2.	Collective contracts	371
7.5.1.2.1.	The use of collective contracts	372
7.5.1.2.2.	The role of non-state actors	374
7.5.1.2.3.	Limitations to the role of non-state actors	376
7.5.1.2.4.	Conclusion on collective contracts	377
7.5.1.3.	Model contracts	377
7.5.1.4.	Standard contract terms ('Standard Terms and Conditions' – STCs)	380
7.5.1.5.	Conclusion on contractual self-regulation	382
7.5.2.	Self-regulation through articles of association	383
7.5.2.1.	Internally binding codes of conduct	383
7.5.2.2.	Sports associations	384
7.5.2.3.	Internally binding codes for professionals	385
7.5.2.4.	The Pressekodex	388

7.5.2.5.	The Werbekodex	389
7.5.2.6.	The role of non-state actors	390
7.5.2.7.	Limitations to non-state actors' roles	393
7.5.2.8.	Comparison	395
7.5.2.9.	Conclusion on self-regulation on the basis of articles of association	396
7.5.3.	One-sided juridical acts	397
7.5.3.1.	Encouraging codes to complement hard law: corporate social responsibility.	397
7.5.3.2.	Lack of interference because of self-regulation: the BVI- Verhaltensregeln	398
7.5.3.3.	Border cases: binding one-sided declarations?	399
7.5.3.4.	General declarations: consumer services.	400
7.5.3.5.	The roles of non-state actors	402
7.5.3.6.	Limitations to non-state actors' roles	403
7.5.3.7.	Comparison	404
7.5.3.8.	Conclusion on one-sided self-regulation.	405
7.5.4.	Conclusion on non-state actors	405
7.6.	Conclusion	407
7.6.1.	Differences between the roles of actors under German and European law	407
7.6.2.	Coexisting claims to authority	408
7.6.3.	The development of private law and state-centric perspectives.	409
7.6.4.	The development of private law in the light of radical pluralist arguments.	411
7.6.5.	Mutual recognition and respect?	414
 Chapter 8.
Actors Developing Private Law in the Dutch Legal Order		415
8.1.	Introduction	415
8.2.	Central questions on the role of state actors and non-state actors.	415
8.2.1.	The German constitutional framework as a starting point?	416
8.2.2.	The distinction between legal norms and juridical acts.	417
8.2.3.	Alternative regulation as a hybrid between law and contract?	418
8.2.4.	Towards a framework for the role of actors developing private law in the Dutch legal order	419
8.3.	State actors.	420
8.3.1.	The legislator and the Hoge Raad.	421
8.3.2.	The development of private law beyond the state	421
8.3.2.1.	European actors.	421
8.3.2.1.1.	The role of European actors under the TFEU	422
8.3.2.1.2.	The role of European actors under Dutch constitutional law	422
8.3.2.1.3.	The role of European actors under the Gw and the TFEU	422

8.3.2.2.	The role of international actors in the development of private law	423
8.3.2.3.	Conclusion on the development of private law beyond the state	423
8.3.3.	Conclusion on state actors.	424
8.4.	State actors and non-state actors: co-regulation	425
8.4.1.	Referral to private actors and new governance	425
8.4.1.1.	Instances of referral.	425
8.4.1.2.	The role of non-state actors	427
8.4.1.3.	Limitations on the role of non-state actors	427
8.4.1.4.	A plea for a framework on the basis of private autonomy and Fremdbestimmung	428
8.4.2.	Codes of conduct: the corporate governance code and the banking code	430
8.4.2.1.	Reinforced codes of conduct	430
8.4.2.2.	The role of non-state actors	432
8.4.2.3.	Limitations on the role of non-state actors	432
8.4.3.	Collective bargaining.	433
8.4.3.1.	Instances of collective bargaining.	433
8.4.3.2.	The role of non-state actors: exercising fundamental rights?	436
8.4.3.3.	Limitations on the role of non-state actors?	436
8.4.3.4.	A plea for a future framework on the basis of principles of private autonomy and Fremdbestimmung	438
8.4.4.	Conclusion on state actors and non-state actors	439
8.5.	Non-state actors	440
8.5.1.	Contractual self-regulation	442
8.5.1.1.	The role of contract parties	442
8.5.1.2.	Collective contracts.	446
8.5.1.3.	Model contracts	448
8.5.1.4.	STCs.	449
8.5.1.5.	Conclusion on contractual self-regulation	451
8.5.2.	Self-regulation on the basis of articles of association: tuchtrecht	452
8.5.2.1.	Internally binding codes on the basis of articles of association	452
8.5.2.2.	Sports associations	453
8.5.2.3.	The encouragement of self-regulation in a national and European context.	453
8.5.2.4.	Encouraging self-regulation	454
8.5.2.5.	Codes as conditions for membership: consumer sales	455
8.5.2.6.	Codes as conditions for membership in the absence of mandatory law	456
8.5.2.7.	The role of non-state actors	457
8.5.2.8.	Limitations on the role of non-state actors	458
8.5.2.9.	Conclusion on tuchtrecht	458

8.5.3.	One-sided declarations	459
8.5.3.1.	Binding declarations: consumer sales	459
8.5.3.2.	Binding declarations: contracts for the supply of energy . . .	460
8.5.3.3.	Suggesting reinforced self-regulation: social corporate responsibility	460
8.5.3.4.	Codes of conduct on the basis of recommendations	461
8.5.3.5.	Primary payment services: binding declarations?	463
8.5.3.6.	The role of non-state actors	463
8.5.3.7.	Limitations on the role of non-state actors?	466
8.5.3.8.	Conclusion on one-sided declarations	467
8.5.4.	Reconsidering the distinction between tuchtrecht and one-sided declarations in Dutch law	468
8.5.5.	Conclusion on non-state actors	468
8.6.	Conclusion	470
8.6.1.	The role of actors under Dutch law, the TFEU and the GG	471
8.6.2.	Coexisting claims to authority	480
8.6.3.	The development of private law and state-centric perspectives	480
8.6.4.	The development of private law in the light of radical pluralist arguments	487
8.6.5.	Starting points for mutual recognition	489

Chapter 9.

The Use of National Techniques in the Development of European Private Law . . . 491

9.1.	Introduction	491
9.2.	The use of codifications in a multilevel legal order	492
9.2.1.	The implementation of the acquis within codifications	492
9.2.2.	The use of codifications in areas of private law with a cross-border aspect	495
9.2.3.	Conclusion on the use of codifications	498
9.3.	The use of soft laws	501
9.3.1.	Soft laws modelled on national codifications	502
9.3.2.	Overlapping sets of soft law	505
9.3.3.	Soft laws and the private law acquis	509
9.3.4.	Conclusion on the use of soft laws	511
9.4.	The use of blanket clauses in a multilevel legal order	512
9.4.1.	Reasons for the use of blanket clauses in the acquis	512
9.4.2.	Interaction between courts in the interpretation of blanket clauses . .	516
9.4.3.	Conclusion on the use of blanket clauses	519
9.5.	The use of general principles	520
9.5.1.	Interaction on the basis of general principles?	520
9.5.2.	Weaknesses arising from the use of general principles?	523
9.5.2.1.	The discovery of general principles and predictability	523
9.5.2.2.	The discovery and the use of general principles: problems of accessibility	527

9.5.2.3.	Conclusion on the weaknesses arising from the use of general principles.	527
9.5.3.	Conclusion on the use of principles.	528
9.6.	Conclusion.	528
Chapter 10.
The Use of Additional and Alternative Techniques.
10.1.	Introduction	533
10.2.	Additional techniques supporting the legislative process	534
10.2.1.	Consultations.	537
10.2.1.1.	The current use of consultations.	537
10.2.1.2.	Shortcomings in the use of consultations	539
10.2.1.3.	Improving the use of consultations	541
10.2.1.4.	Conclusion on the use of consultations	544
10.2.2.	Impact assessments.	545
10.2.2.1.	Shortcomings in the use of impact assessments.	545
10.2.2.2.	Improving the use of impact assessments.	549
10.2.2.3.	Conclusion on the use of impact assessments.	550
10.2.3.	Networks	550
10.2.3.1.	The current use of networks.	551
10.2.3.2.	Current shortcomings in the use of networks	551
10.2.3.3.	Improvements in the use of networks	553
10.2.3.4.	Conclusion on the use of networks.	554
10.2.4.	Databases	554
10.2.4.1.	The current use of databases	554
10.2.4.2.	Shortcomings in the use of databases.	555
10.2.4.3.	Improving the use of databases.	556
10.2.4.4.	Conclusion on the use of databases	557
10.2.5.	Conclusion on the techniques used to strengthen the legislative process	557
10.3.	Additional techniques beyond the legislative process: blanket clauses	561
10.3.1.	Guidance on the interpretation of blanket clauses	562
10.3.2.	Suggestions for comitology procedures.	563
10.3.3.	The use of alternative regulation in the interpretation of blanket clauses.	565
10.3.4.	The introduction of the prejudicial procedure in Dutch law.	567
10.3.5.	Conclusion on the use of techniques in addition to blanket clauses	568
10.4.	Additional techniques beyond the legislative process: Standard Terms and Conditions (STCs).	569
10.4.1.	The current use of STCs.	570
10.4.2.	Improving the predictability and responsiveness of private law.	570
10.4.3.	Conclusion on the use of STCs.	573
10.5.	Additional techniques beyond the legislative process: The Open Method of Coordination (OMC).	574

10.5.1. A closer look at the OMC	574
10.5.2. Improving the responsiveness of European private law?	576
10.5.3. Drawbacks	577
10.5.4. Conclusion on the use of the OMC	578
10.6. Implementation problems and strategies: Regulations instead of Directives . .	579
10.7. Optional regimes	581
10.7.1. A closer look at optional regimes	582
10.7.2. How can optional regimes contribute to more comprehensible European private law?	584
10.7.3. Drawbacks	584
10.7.4. Conclusion on the use of optional regimes	585
10.8. American inspiration	586
10.8.1. The use of Restatements in the European legal order	586
10.8.2. Experiences with the DCFR and the Restatements	589
10.8.3. The use of model laws	590
10.8.4. Conclusion on American inspiration	592
10.9. Collective bargaining	593
10.9.1. Suggestions for collective bargaining	593
10.9.2. The need for inclusive and representative negotiations between equal parties	594
10.9.3. Conclusion on the use of collective bargaining	595
10.10. Conclusion	596
Chapter 11.
Conclusions	601
11.1. Introduction	601
11.2. Multilevel governance and pluralist insights	601
11.3. The state-centric approach to the development of European private law	603
11.3.1. A principled approach: the German framework	603
11.3.2. An instrumental approach: the European view	605
11.3.3. The middle road: the Dutch approach	606
11.3.4. A coherent approach?	608
11.4. Multilevel governance insights: restraint in deliberation	609
11.5. Benefits arising from the coexistence of actors in the multilevel legal order . . .	613
11.5.1. Checks and balances for European private law	613
11.5.2. The coexistence of national actors	614
11.5.3. Regulatory competition	615
11.5.4. Mutual learning	616
11.5.5. Further opportunities for mutual learning	617
11.6. Problematic or beneficial coexistence?	621
Bibliography	625