ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This book originates from a doctoral thesis completed in September 2013. It could not have been written without the support of my beloved wife, Christina. I thank her for our endless discussions, for her proof-reading skills and for reminding me that there is a life worth living outside PhD research.

I also thank my friends and family for being there in times of doubt. One of them, Sébastien, made a decisive contribution to my thesis but unfortunately passed away just before I could thank him. I bid him farewell.

I am grateful to the scholars I met during the UACES conferences. I have also greatly benefited from a workshop on post-national rulemaking organised by the University of Amsterdam. I particularly wish to thank Alex Warleigh, Deirdre Curtin and Dawid Friedrich for their input.

I am also thankful to the Catholic University of Louvain for entrusting me with a job of teaching assistant during the last two years of my PhD. My participation in the activities of its Centre for European law have greatly contributed to my research. I particularly wish to thank Stéphanie Francq and Jean-Yves Carlier in that respect.

Of course, thank you to Adam Cygan, my PhD supervisor, for his patience and guidance. I could not have hoped for better support at the University of Leicester. Likewise, I am grateful to Michael Dougan and Oxana Golynger for their encouraging comments during the viva voce examination.

Last but not least, thank you to the editorial staff and the two anonymous reviewers at Intersentia, without whom you could not possibly hold this book in your hands today.
