IMPACT

Prophecy and Change the World

ARLEEN WESTERHOF

Arleen Westerhof has written a book filled with fresh insight that will open the doors to revelation for business leaders and all other Christians. Impact is simply brilliant!

For years the gifts of the Holy Spirit have been poured out upon the Body of Christ, enabling us to do the works of Jesus Christ. But too often our containers are too small, our wineskins are old, and our mindsets are limited. Now, along come a new generation of forerunners, preparing the way for clear revelation with fresh applications. That is exactly what you will find in this book. Thank you Arleen for providing a contemporary example of how we can work revelation into a transformational model. Well done!

– Dr. James W. Goll
Founder of God Encounters Ministries and GOLL Ideation LLC, international author, recording artist, and communications trainer

The prophets of our time are courageous, strong and intentional in their faithful proclamation of the word of the Lord. They do this in the midst of the chaos and confusion in our governments and societies. As they listen to the Father's voice and obey His instructions, they are changing the direction of nations and seeing God's Kingdom manifested in new ways. Arleen Westerhof is such a prophet. She not only clearly hears the Father's voice, but boldly acts on His commands. And she does this with a Spirit-filled grace that brings life.

I encourage you to read this book with an expectant heart. Ask God to give you a vision that will require a supernatural move of the Spirit to achieve it, then watch God work together with you to accomplish great things. I believe that this is our Kingdom watershed moment in history. The army of God in the marketplace and the church has the ability to see God's Kingdom come to earth.

– Dr. Graham Power
Founder of Global Day of Prayer and Unashamedly Ethical Executive Chair of Power Group of Companies

One of the fascinating developments of our times is the increasing focus on prophecy and the creation of prophetic cultures. In Impact Arleen Westerhof describes her personal journey in this area. As you read, you will soon be gripped by the testimonies of God speaking.

But it goes further than the local church! If Christ is King over every area of life and society, then He also speaks about all of these areas. It is remarkable how God's Spirit is calling modern-day Daniels who are positioned in the middle of both the church and society. They speak out revelation from God's throne, often with surprising results. A fascinating book that will strengthen your faith! Highly recommended.

– Machiel Jonker

Arleen Westerhof has always been a great communicator, but Impact is more than communicating a message – it's about a new move of God on the earth. As Arleen says, it's not just enough to think big anymore – we have to think differently. This book is full of practical insights into this new move of God and the role of prophecy in it. Nothing short of destiny mobilization for influencing your world is found within the pages of this book. You will want to share it with others and you will refer to it often.

– Dr. Sharon Stone

Presiding Apostle, Christian International Europe

I highly recommend Impact. Arleen Westerhof writes about prophecy in a way that is accessible for everyone, but that also shows that it is a serious matter that you must deal with responsibly. God's people are supposed to be prophetic, and through prophecy our generation has the chance to reveal God's heart in both the church and in society. Prophecy helps us to make the earth look a little bit more like heaven. As you learn to understand His voice and obey Him, God's Kingdom breaks through in your own life and in the world around you. A new perspective!

– Gerlo Sogtoen

*Chairman, Pastoral Core Group,
Catholic Charismatic Renewal, the Netherlands*

“Compelling” is the word that best describes Impact. When you start reading this book you won’t want to put it down. It is compelling because of its honesty, humility, integrity, and truth. Arleen Westerhof has spent many years helping others understand and walk in the revelation that comes from the voice of God. You will find personal stories of twenty-first-century global leaders who have been positioned by God because of their practical application of prophetic revelation. Impact will demystify something that Jesus tells us is one of our rights of citizenship in the Kingdom: “My sheep hear My voice, and I know them, and they follow Me ...” There are hidden treasures waiting for you as you read this book!

Author of “Secrets of the Kingdom Economy” and “Nehemiah People”

Dr. Arleen Westerhof has written an important book for our times. Over the years, I have watched Arleen build movements, change personal destinies, and influence world leaders by working with the revelation God has given her. This book will equip you to impact your world in ways you never dreamed possible. Thoroughly biblical, it gives foundations to change the world you live in.

– Stacey Campbell

Founder Canadian Prophetic Council

Impact empowers prophets and prophetic believers to present God’s answers and solutions in these times of great change and social upheaval. These answers are not for the Church alone. Thinking from a Kingdom perspective, Arleen connects God’s words with the future of the economy, government, media, culture, and even whole cities and nations.

Read this book and gain a better understanding of the crucial role of prophecy and prophets in the body of Christ and the world we live in. Let a deep desire grow within you for true reformation and change, brought about by the miraculous guidance of the Holy Spirit. And most of all, take to heart the call to action: “earnestly desire the spiritual gifts, especially that you may prophesy” (1 Cor. 14:1).

– Hans Maat

Director, Evangelisch Werkverband binnen

de Protestantse Kerk in Nederland

Arleen Westerhof is a prophetic pioneer whose keen sense of the times and seasons and ability to communicate the heart of God have allowed her to impact thousands. Arleen is a dear friend and trusted prophetic voice in my life and ministry. Her accuracy in the prophetic comes from a place of deep intimacy with the Holy Spirit.

I believe that Impact will challenge and change your life, business, family and ministry. This is a very significant book for the church in our time.

– David Wagner
Father's Heart Ministries

This book is very timely and important! The time has come for us to call forth the prophets. Read this book and understand the difference between hearing God's voice and acting in the gift of prophecy. Whether you are a prophet or a prophetic Christian, allow God to lead you into a fuller understanding of His calling for you in this hour.

Let us read, discuss and seek the Lord together across the five-fold ministry. In today's battlefield, the marketplace, we can humbly serve God together, grateful for all his gifts.

– Jan Stuesson
International strategy consultant
Chairman of the International Board, Christian Chamber of Commerce International

Arleen Westerhof came from a traditional Christian background before discovering the power of the Holy Spirit. His presence, the supernatural and the prophetic are now part of her daily life. Her scientific background helps her to give a clear and sound representation of the work and the Person of the Holy Spirit and of prophecy in particular.

Impact is an absolute must for everyone who wants more from God and who wonders about the importance of prophecy. A few of the topics covered in this book are: the apostolic/prophetic foundations, protocol and prophecy in the local church and in the place where God has placed you, and the importance of character in ministry. A fascinating and important book and an asset to our country.

– Hans Tims
National Leader of Friends for Ministries in Fellowship, the Netherlands

Foreword

We are living in exciting and terrifying times: the genuine children of God are being revealed. The Holy Spirit speaks and divinely inspires us. This allows us to inform, impart and impact the world around us. It is important that every believer hears the voice of God. This is the foundation of the prophetic. From this groundwork, prophecy interacts with the world around us to generate Kingdom legacy. Through this we are able to permeate every aspect of life and every sphere of culture. Prophecy gives birth to life-giving declarations and effective and innovative strategies.

The prophet Elijah encountered the presence of God in a whisper. This still, small voice held the revelation and activation. It led to transformation in society. Through Jesus we have open access to the Holy Spirit. Now the spiritual gift of prophecy is available to all of us!

The impact prophecy has in my life is profound and personal, and I believe it can have the same degree of impact on yours. Throughout my walk with the Lord, major life decisions were catalyzed by notable prophetic words. God led me to my beautiful wife through a personal collection of prophetic words. An unforgettable divine encounter led us to take steps of faith that moved my family cross-country to southern California, because we believe God will bring revival and a great harvest there. Prophetic promises from this encounter still resonate: ministries I steward today were birthed from these prophetic seeds. By following His voice, the Lord has prospered and blessed me through every step of obedient faith. I can testify to this truth: God is not distant, but desires to be intimately involved in our lives.

From industry and business, family and education, to governments and ecosystems, the prophetic is key to unlocking

God's perspective. It activates divine connections for Kingdom transformation. God is raising up revivalists and reformers who are deeply in love with Jesus and in tune with the Holy Spirit.

My good friend and beloved sister-in-Christ, Arleen Westerhof, has put together this excellent and valuable resource. I believe this will give you the tools and inspiration to increase in prophetic proficiency. Arleen is a long-time prophetic voice in the apostolic arena of Harvest International Ministry. Her insight into the prophetic will give you a clear understanding of how prophecy can transform your everyday lives. She and her husband Dick impact their spheres of influence through their ministry God's Embassy Amsterdam. They have a call to bring societal transformation through personal prophetic ministry. From social issues to economic innovations that are impacting nations, their prophetic and apostolic anointings are transforming their region with the light of God's love.

As you read ahead, may the revelations and testimonies in this book enrich your personal journey of discovering the prophetic hand-in-hand with Abba Father. As with the sons of Issachar (see 1 Chron. 12:32), I believe God is raising you up as sons and daughters to understand the signs and times, so that you know what to do. I believe the principles presented here by Arleen provide the tools for practical application and personal reflection. These will encourage you to seek the voice of God and hear Him with clarity and purpose. This book is a timely word for this due season. I am excited that the Lord has led you to read this. May you step into your prophetic potential with faith for the fullness of God and His love through you.

In His love,

Working with Revelation

“This is the most beautiful thing I’ve ever heard,” said the lady in the row behind me as she softly started to cry. A few moments later a man on the other side of the room stood up and said, “Hallelujah, this is unbelievable!” He put both hands over his mouth and sat down embarrassed at his own outburst. As the speaker continued, another woman stood up and ran out of the room. I heard her talking to someone on her mobile phone: “I’m so excited I can’t sit still! This is amazing! You have to hear this!” She stuck her hand with the phone into the room. And so it went. I could have understood all this excitement if we had been in a revival meeting. But we weren’t. We were in an economic summit and the Holy Spirit had just fallen.

The attendees were Christian professors and leaders in the fields of economics, government and business. They were not charismatic Christians. The lecture was about economic principles, but God’s presence was tangible. God was revealing new ideas, moving the participants to their cores.

A few years earlier the Lord started to wake me up in the middle of the night. He said: “Call forth the Josephs and Daniels in business and economics! I want to heal nations by healing their economies.”

I didn’t understand. “Lord, why on earth do you want me to pray for Mammon?”¹ I said out loud. Back then I had no idea that God was so interested in business and economics. I still thought that they were the domain of Mammon and that I should stay as far away from them as possible. God, however, had other ideas. He continued to wake me up three or four times a week, every week, for two years!

Each time He woke me up I'd pray until the burden for prayer lifted and then I'd go back to bed. Finally, after two years He said, "And now, Arleen, I want you to ask me for the solutions to heal business and economics."

Did I hear that right? I blurted out, "Lord, I've got a Ph.D. in chemistry, not economics, remember?"

He raised His voice and said: "Ask!" It wasn't a suggestion.

These prophetic encounters became the foundation for what would later become the Economic Summit, an organization committed to seeing God heal nations by healing their economies and their societies. The new supernaturally inspired blueprints that God is releasing through the summits are attracting attention worldwide. Even secular governments are coming around to the fact that these are truly transformational blueprints for nations—and they tell us so!

Divine revelation has led us to start more than just the Economic Summit. People often ask my husband and me, "How do you do it? How are you able to consistently take the revelation that God gives you and make it practical in a way that changes people's lives, their cities and even their nations?" Early on I realized that the prophetic was one of the keys to changing nations. However, transforming society requires more than just being able to hear God's voice. We have to learn how to receive divine revelation and make it practical. In other words, we have to learn how to "work with revelation."

As I've learned to work with revelation I have seen God use me, my husband, and our church to see measurable change for good come in Amsterdam's Red Light District. Following His voice has helped us to start new ministries, new foundations and new businesses in the nations. It has also helped our church to become an apostolic center that is releasing people into their callings in every sphere of influence in society.

A New Situation

We are at a watershed moment in history. The tricky thing about watershed moments is that we often don't recognize that we're in them until they are over. This time around the watershed moment is being caused by the current technological revolution. New technologies such as Artificial Intelligence, robotics, self-driving cars and the "Internet of Things" (IoT, which refers to the situation in which all sorts of physical devices and everyday objects are connected through the internet and are independently communicating with each other) are changing the way we live, work and communicate with each other beyond all recognition.

In a previous watershed moment, the Industrial Revolution, the rise of the steam engine (1768)² was responsible for new jobs being created in industries that had never existed before. Many of these jobs, however, were in the cities. Within fifty years Great Britain's population went from 70 percent of the population living in the country to 70 percent of the population living in the cities. The social disruption created by thousands upon thousands of people moving into the cities in search of work was evident, among other things, in the extreme poverty and the "poorhouses" that characterized that period.

Many are calling the era we now live in the "Fourth Industrial Revolution." This revolution has the potential to lead to more disruption than all of the other industrial revolutions of the past. This is because of:

1. The speed at which changes are occurring. The deeply interconnected world that we live in is causing the speed at which changes occur to exceed anything that we have ever seen before in the history of the planet.
2. The breadth and the depth of these changes. The digital revolution is causing unprecedented paradigm shifts in the economy, business, society and individual lives. It is not only changing “what” and “how” we do things, but “who” we think we are.
3. Transformed systems. This revolution is transforming entire systems (government, economics, business, education, etc.) within and across countries, companies, industries and society as a whole.³

What this boils down to is that about 47 percent of the jobs that now exist in the US (and in other nations) are at risk of being made obsolete by these new technologies in the next decade or two. Even though new jobs in new industries will be created, the expectation is that jobs in old industries will become obsolete at a much faster rate than that these new jobs will be created.⁴ You don't have to be a rocket scientist to know that this means that there is trouble on the horizon.

In the midst of all this social upheaval God is pouring out His Spirit. He is igniting the prophetic in a whole new way all over the world and He wants us to know that heaven is not in crisis. Since He never does anything without first revealing it to His servants, the prophets (Amos 3:7), He wants to prepare us by giving us revelation and strategies for the future. That's why we are seeing the Holy Spirit opening up opportunities for the body of Christ to function in the prophetic in new ways. Prophets are starting to turn up as advisors in government, media, entertainment, think tanks and even business and economics. With these opportunities, however, come new challenges and new requirements for prophets.

Schools of the Prophets

Shortly after Dick and I started our church God's Embassy Amsterdam in 2005, I knew that I needed to train people in the prophetic so that they could step into these areas with confidence. At first I thought about using some of the existing prophetic courses that I knew about. Very quickly, however, I realized that this was not going to work. None of the people I knew who had taken these courses were functioning in the prophetic outside of the church and many weren't even functioning in it inside the church! I needed to develop something new.

The new course needed to be built on an apostolic foundation.⁵ It also needed to be holistic in its approach, since prophecy is not just for inside the walls of the church. It is meant to impact the whole world! Prophecy also needs to become practical so that we can work together with the Holy Spirit to see the things that already exist in heaven—and revealed by prophecy—take shape down here on the earth. I therefore needed to train prophets and prophetic people to be able to work together well with apostles, since apostles generally have the anointing to build.

A quick aside: for the purposes of this book, a “prophet” is someone who functions in the biblical office of the prophet. “Prophetic people” are those who have asked Christ into their lives and, as a result, have the Holy Spirit living within them. Not all believers are called to be prophets, but all of us are called to be prophetic!

We also needed to equip people to be able to effectively prophesy into all aspects of society. With all of the changes taking place around us, many of those working in government, business and the media don't know what to do or how to respond. They need to hear the Lord's voice in their situations. This meant that we needed to teach people about protocol and expose them to opportunities to prophesy in different environments during the training itself. I wanted our students to be able to prophesy with confidence long after the training had ended. Finally, the training needed to be relational and emphasize character as well as anointing. I wanted to see prophetic people raised up who are a blessing to the local churches that they are a part of.

I developed a curriculum that consisted of three schools—level 1, 2 and 3. I decided to call them “Schools of the Prophets” instead of “Prophetic Schools” because I wanted to emphasize the person, not the gift: God has given prophets and prophetic people to the Church. The School of the Prophets 1 emphasizes prophecy in practice and protocol. School 2 emphasizes testing prophetic words and growing in accuracy in the prophetic, and School 3 emphasizes prophecy both inside and outside of the church. School 3 also teaches the students how to establish healthy and stable prophetic teams in churches and regions and how to prophesy into society’s different spheres of influence. Some people call these spheres the “Seven Mountains.”⁶

I’ve taught these Schools of the Prophets for several years now and we have received a lot of positive feedback. One of the compliments that has meant the most to me came from a denominational leader in my home nation of the Netherlands. He said: “We always know when people have done your Schools of the Prophets. They prophesy accurately, they are teachable and they are a joy to work with!” As a church leader and a prophet myself, his words were extremely gratifying. We also hear the same things from business leaders and from those who work in government.

I wrote this book in response to the many requests that I’ve received from those in the English-speaking nations for the Schools of the Prophets in the last few years. It has taken me five years to write, primarily because I am a scientist. I enjoyed studying chemistry at school and eventually wound up getting a Ph.D. in it. I’m also very analytically inclined—and this shapes how I write about prophecy. I share my own journey and the insights that God has given me about the gift of prophecy and about being a prophet in our times of radical change.

Part 1 of this book will help you to understand why prophecy is so important for seeing revival and reformation in our generation. You will learn how to discern God's voice, how to grow in accuracy and confidence in your prophesying, prophetic protocol and how to test your prophetic words.

Today's prophets are no longer just mouthpieces who deliver the message. Our lives need to back up the prophetic words that we deliver to others. This is especially true if God uses us in domains outside of the church. This is the time for the Josephs and Daniels of our generation to stand up. To take the heart of God to the heart of government. So in Part 2, we'll talk about the character required of prophets who want to be used by God in this hour.

Prophecy does not stand on its own. In order for it to flourish it has to be an intrinsic part of the culture of our churches and organizations. In Part 3 of this book you will learn what that culture is, the role that leaders play in shaping it, and how prophecy in turn influences the cultures in which it is embedded. You will also learn how to take revelation from heaven and to put it into practice so that you can see more of the glory of God being revealed in you and through you.

As we begin this voyage of discovery, I pray you will discover more of the depths of who God truly wants to be for you. I also pray that you will learn how to work together with Him through revelation to see God's Kingdom advanced on the earth.

PROPHECY

Prophecy is essential for seeing revival and reformation in our generation. Learn how to discern God's voice, how to grow in accuracy and confidence in your prophesying, prophetic protocol and how to test your prophetic words.

Repositioning the Prophetic

We're living in a time where God is not only changing the Church, He's changing the world, and we have to start to think differently about the role of prophets and the prophetic.

"If you go out that door without praying for him again, things are going to go horribly wrong!" The voice inside my head was insistent. I was just about to leave home to go to church. The voice confirmed to me that something was going on that day that was not normal. Back then my husband, Dick, and I were part of a church-planting initiative. He's a runner, and the day before he had run more than twelve miles and felt great! But the next day I couldn't get him to wake up. I was worried. His skin had an unusual gray color and he couldn't open his eyes. It was also hard to understand him when he talked. He didn't move and could only mumble.

I closed the front door of our house and went back upstairs to our bedroom. I knelt down beside Dick and asked, "Lord Jesus, what do you want me to pray?" Two words came into my mind: "coma" and "deep sleep." These words made no sense to me at all. However, Dick was looking really ill. Unsure of how to pray and feeling more than a little bit silly I said, "Lord Jesus, I ask you to burn coma and deep sleep now with the fire of Your Holy Spirit." Suddenly the gray color left Dick's skin through his feet and disappeared down from the bed into the floor! It looked a lot like something you'd expect to see in an animated film.

About the Author

Arleen Westerhof is the Lead Pastor of the God's Embassy Church in Amsterdam, the Netherlands, together with her husband Dick. Founded in 2005, God's Embassy is a cutting-edge apostolic center with an anointing for reformation and transformation. Through obedience to the voice of God they have seen measurable positive change occur in the Red Light District near to them.

Arleen is an international conference speaker and the founder and director of the Netherlands Prophetic Council and of the Living In Your Destiny Schools of the Prophets. These schools, which are highly esteemed among both church and marketplace leaders, provide comprehensive training in the prophetic. Graduates can be found operating in their prophetic gifting both in their churches and in their spheres of influence in society. She is also the founder of the Economic Summit that exists to provide divinely inspired solutions for global economic problems. Since its inception in 2014, it has become an internationally respected organization that advises governments and businesses on strategies for national transformation.

As an international speaker, Arleen trains people from all walks of life to discern the voice of God for their own lives, ministries, businesses and cities. Arleen has a Ph.D. in chemistry from the University of Western Ontario in Canada and completed a Postdoctoral Research Fellowship at the University of London (England) before being recruited to work for a large multinational company in Amsterdam. Her experience in the business world, ministry, consultancy and education all combine to give her unique insights into how to effect change.

She is a gifted communicator and her prophetic insight and balanced teaching have led to her to becoming a respected voice on the prophetic and an advisor to leaders worldwide.

Dick and Arleen live in Amsterdam.

PROPHECY IS MEANT FOR MORE

Prophecy transforms people's lives, but it is meant for more. God is ready to transform every segment of society, and He reveals strategies to accomplish it.

Arleen Westerhof shows us how to work with prophetic revelation. She describes how to give prophetic words, test prophecies, and how apostles and prophets can work together to accomplish breakthrough. She shows that character development, inner healing and deliverance are essential for anyone building a prophetic ministry.

This practical book proves that prophecy can have an amazing impact on every aspect of the world around us!
