PREFACE

This thesis was carried out between September 2005 and October 2008 at the Department for Criminal Law and Criminology, Law Faculty, University of Leiden, under the bi-national supervision of Hans Nijboer (University of Leiden) and Hans-Heiner Kühne (University of Trier, Germany). For the present publication, legal developments until August 2009 could be taken into account. The study was defended in Leiden on 16th June 2009. It was partially funded by the German Academic Exchange Service (DAAD).

The idea to write a comparative study on anti-terror legislation emerged shortly after the attacks of September 11th. The subsequent legislative activity in Germany was amazing in many ways and made me very curious of what happened in other countries. Thus in 2002 I planned to choose for this doctoral subject should I ever really decide to engage in a PhD. After my clerkship at the International Criminal Court in The Hague, I had become addicted to the international air of the Netherlands and therefore decided that this would be the best place to write a comparative legal study in English language. Also, the Netherlands seemed suitable as a ‘neutral’ territory to study the legislation of the United Kingdom, Spain, Germany and France from an objective external perspective. To this end, Leiden University has proven to be an excellent place with great research facilities in an open, disciplined, and, at the same time, relaxed environment.

The dissertation consists of three parts: a historical overview on selected terrorist movements in the world, an examination of human-rights sensitive anti-terror laws adopted in the United Kingdom, Spain, Germany and France within the last forty years, and a final comparison and analysis of the findings of the previous parts.

I hope both legal practitioners and future legislators will find the present study useful, when applying and passing new counter-terror legislation.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

This thesis would never have been completed without the support of many people. I owe my thanks to the German Academic Exchange Service (Deutscher Akademischer Austauschdienst – DAAD) for part financing the project. I would like to thank Caselex and, in particular, Marc de Vries, for the flexibility and his understanding throughout the PhD period: Hartelijk bedankt, Marc, voor jouw onbureaucratische en bemoedigende houding die het (over)leven tijdens de promotie zeer vergemakkelijkt heeft.

A thesis in comparative legal studies cannot be completed without the necessary material and technical facilities. I am very grateful for the work space, printing and copying facilities that Leiden University offered. I would like to thank the Department of Criminal Law and Criminology for the support and for integrating me, the buitenlandse promovenda, in their academic agenda:

Reino, jouw hulp was echt onontbeerlijk. Veel dank voor het meedenken en de vlotte hulp bij het regelen van alle formele zaken waaraan ik soms zelf had moeten denken. Marieke, ook bedankt voor je hulp, de interessante conversaties en jouw ondersteuning vanaf het begin van mijn promotiestudie.

I would also like to thank the staff of the Peace Palace Library in The Hague and the Max-Planck-Institutes of Heidelberg and Freiburg, for their cooperation and ready assistance.

Furthermore, I am much indebted to my research school, the Onderzoeksschool Maatschappelijke Veiligheid (OMV) as well as to the Meijers' Institute, for the academic education and training throughout the PhD period. In particular, the OMV provided me the social academic network I needed to “keep calm and carry on”. In this context, I would like to thank particularly the girls of the “OMV Seminar Organizing Committee”, for an excellent collaboration and teamwork in organising two PhD Seminars. It was, above all, great fun!

I also would like to express my gratitude to the people who – according to the customs at Leiden University - I am not supposed to thank here, but who nevertheless supported me and closely followed the development and outcome of this thesis, who guided me through the jungle of research, who evoked my curiosity in legal sciences and comparative criminal law and taught me critical thinking. I am grateful for all the time and thoughts you invested in this project, as well as the moral support you offered me when I needed it.

I shall not forget the significant intellectual input I received from other kind and competent researchers. I am truly indebted to John Spencer for his help, his advice on British law and his extremely valuable comments. Simon and Amelia, thank you so much for critically proofreading the manuscript and improving the language.

Enrique, mil gracias por tus comentarios útiles e amables! Verder ben ik veel dank verschuldigd aan Alex P. Schmid, Jan-Peter Loof, Elaine Mak en Pieter Verrest voor jullie waardevolle feedback. Lenie en Nicole, ik ben heel blij dat jullie mijn paronymphen worden! Verder ben ik jullie natuurlijk erg dankbaar voor de uitstekende hulp bij de Nederlandse samenvatting!

Auch Inga, Andreas, Soledad, Silke, Frank und Anna möchte ich an dieser Stelle herzlich danken, dass ihr so oft in Gedanken bei mir und meiner Arbeit wart. Vincent, merci pour ton aide dans la dernière phase de la thèse, surtout pour m'avoir convaincu de la finir et de la rendre malgré tous mes doutes!

Equally, if not more important for the completion of this thesis are my friends, with whom I shared many special moments in life; who were there for me not only during the PhD but also before and after; who influenced my thoughts and ideas, my choices and tastes. I am grateful for the many distractions and for making life so interesting!

Ich danke Euch, Anna und Inga, für die spannende und schöne Zeit in Trier, die wichtigen Gespräche und Abenteuer. Rahel, Anja, Barbara, Robert, Bärbel, Antje, Catherine, Angelika und Andi möchte ich für Eure Freundschaften danken, die mich auf so vielfältige Weise inspiriert haben. Marion, mi amorrr, avec toi j'ai appris à aller au-dessus des limites, et à avoir la confiance pour atteindre mes objectifs ("you can get it if you really want..."). Gülhan, teşekkür ederim voor jouw fantastische vriendschap. Javier, gracias por tu amistad y tu apoyo. No voy a olvidar las conversaciones interesantísimas que tuvimos in all the languages mélangés... Denis et Djamel, avec plaisir je me rappelle les après-midis et soirées enchantées à Oegstgeest et à Katwijk avec vous, les dîners et les fêtes qui m'ont convaincus que la vie en Hollande peut être belle. Edo and Silvia, grazie mille per le numerose cene e per le interessanti conversazioni, and for the nice moments we shared playing frisbee or soccer.

My last thoughts go to those who have been with me throughout the years, whom I owe more than I can express. Meiner Familie bin ich dankbar – für alles, was sie mir gegeben und ermöglicht hat! Danke, dass Ihr stets für mich da wart, mir vertraut und mich aufgebaut habt. Danke, dass Ihr des ewigen Themas dieser Arbeit nie überdrüssig wurdet und mir bei so vielen wichtigen Entscheidungen beistandet. Zuletzt möchte ich noch dem danken, der vielleicht der wichtigste Anlass für mich war, in Leiden zu promovieren, und der mir in meinen schlimmsten Phasen beistand, mir zuhörte, mir konsequent und leidenschaftlich widersprach, und mich genauso konsequent und leidenschaftlich liebte.

Merci, Aurélien, pour m'avoir inspirée avec ta fascination et ta passion pour la recherche. Tu as partagé les moments les plus importants de cette thèse avec un intérêt infatigable et encourageant. Merci pour ta patience éternelle, mais, surtout, pour m'avoir montré la beauté de l'amour.
