

The Path Within – A Spiritual Journey Without Gods

Living Without Lies – The Truth of the Self

Inhoud
Preview	12
Introduction:	15

Religion vs. Spiritual Awareness.....	17
The Call of the Unnameable.....	18
A Life Without a Compass.....	23
It began with exhaustion.....	27
Encounter with Another Truth.....	30
The Path Within.....	35
Letting Go of the Self-Image.....	39
The Wisdom of the Earth.....	42
Inner Peace Without Certainty.....	46
Kayu Dhowoh – The Staff as Mirror.....	46
Living in Truthfulness.....	49
The Power of Falsehood.....	53
Everything Is Explainable.....	54
The Woman Who Does Not Answer.....	57
The First Crack.....	61
A Movement Without Explanation.....	64
The Fatigue of Knowing It All.....	68
The First Honest Moment.....	75
No Longer Needing Answers.....	78
Without Illusion, Without Fear.....	80
Truthfulness and Letting Go.....	82
The Skeptical Seeker – The Beginning of Robby’s Journey.....	83
The First Confrontation with the Staff.....	85

Inner Struggle	86
Fear and Failure – The Mirror of Growth.....	87
The Beginning of a Deeper Connection	90
The Beginning of Self-Reflection.....	91
Deepening Trust	92
Growth in His Role.....	93
The Relationship Takes a New Path.....	93
The Gurubesar sat silently, as always, beneath the great tamarind tree.	95
The Beginning of Trust.....	96
A Mirror for the Master	98
Conversation in the Rain	99
Equality.....	100
The Circle Moves Itself	101
The First Silence	102
The Circle Moves	103
The Return to the Gurubesar	104
The Unspoken Teaching.....	105
The Naming	106
The Passing.....	107
For All Days to Come.....	107
The Seeker Who Did Not Come for Answers	109
No Name, No Purpose	110
The Power of Not-Seeking	111

Conversation with Putih-Agheng	112
The Emptiness Before the Gate	112
Silence Without Commitment	113
The Boundary of Commitment.....	114
An Invitation, Not Recognition	114
The Circle Closes.....	115
The Gurubesar Returns for the second time	116
The Pure Line	117
The Final Passing.....	118
About the Next Stories	120
Reality as Teacher	121
Ewald – Caring Without Losing Yourself.....	124
Dino – Relapse and Choice	125
The Lesson of the Ordinary	127
Putuh.....	131
The Boat That Asked for Return	132
The Reversal	133
.....	134
The Wall That Rose.....	134
The Gift That Remained	136
Another Kind of Wealth	138
Pilogue	139
Explanatory Appendix.....	141

© Copyright:

Vishnuh-Society Suriname

Vishnuh-Society Brazil

Vishnuh-Society the Netherlands

Foundation Vishnuh-Society Philippines

© Gurubesar Lancar Ida-Bagus / R.R. Purperhart

© Bibliography, photographs, and illustrations: Vishnuh-Society

No part of this publication may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system, or made public in any form or by any means – whether print, photocopy, microfilm, or otherwise – without prior written permission from the copyright holders.

All rights are reserved.

Preview

The Call of the Unnameable

The woman lives her life without religion or belief system, yet she has felt an indistinct emptiness for years. She calls herself spiritual but feels adrift. She senses that there is something – but what?

A Life Without a Compass

We are introduced to her past: childhood, environment, early quests. She tries yoga, esotericism, manifestation, and mindfulness – but nothing sticks. The pain of inner unrest grows.

The Break

A turning point: burnout, loss, or deep loneliness forces her to a halt. She finally asks herself the question: "What if I've been doing it all wrong?"

Encounter with Another Truth

Through an encounter, a text, or a moment, she stumbles upon the principles of the Vishnuh-Society. No promise of happiness, but a confrontation with truth and self-knowledge.

The Vishnuh-Society - Truth Without Form

The Vishnuh-Society is not a religious movement. It recognizes no gods, no saviors, no supernatural laws. What it does recognize is truth – as the only path to true freedom.

Its teaching calls people to self-inquiry, simplicity, service, and responsibility.

Not from fear, but from clarity.

For those who learn to carry themselves no longer need to cling to illusion.

The Inward Path

She learns what it truly means to be spiritual: no rituals, no gods, no outer display.

Only awareness, purity, and responsibility. She begins her inner work.

Letting Go of the Self-Image

She confronts her old ideas: pride, victimhood, victim-language, projection.

She learns what ego truly is – and begins to shed it, piece by piece.

The Wisdom of the Earth

She discovers how nature, simplicity, silence, and service are deeply tied to genuine spirituality.

Historical insights and universal wisdom deepen her understanding.

Inner Peace Without Certainty

No heaven, no salvation – but peace with life as it is.

She no longer sees herself as a ‘believer’, but as a truthful human being.

Living in Truthfulness

She didn't find herself by searching — but by letting go of all she was not.

She does not live for the light, but from the light within herself.

Introduction:

Many today call themselves 'spiritual'.

They turn away from religion, dogma, and institution — and rightly so.

But what remains when you have no belief, yet still long for meaning?

This book is for them.

Not to convince them, but to bring them back — to themselves.

The woman in this story is fictional, but her struggle is real.

Her search mirrors that of many who try to live with open eyes but stumble over their own assumptions.

What she found was not faith.

What she found was truth.

And truth asks for no belief — only courage.

This work is inspired by the spirit of the Vishnuh-Society, which preaches no religion but teaches responsibility.

It promises no heaven but offers clarity.

May it touch you.

Not to change you,

but to remind you who you are — without lie, without role, without mask.

May it lift the veil that sometimes blinds you, and stir the quiet fire that always burns within you.

Not to add anything,

but to reveal what has long been hidden.