

Rooooaar!

Louis comes running with his digging tools.
“Hi, everyone!” he calls out.
“What are you playing?”

“Hi, Louis,” Emma smiles. “I like your hat!
That’s the perfect outfit to look for dinosaurs!”

“Look at my purple dinosaur!”
Olivia cheers.
“It has three big horns on its head.”

“We’re playing dinosaurs!”
Arthur shouts.
“Do you want to play too?”

The paleontologist

Today, I'm a dinosaur detective!
With my bucket and my brush, I go looking for dinosaur bones.
I use my pickaxe to break the biggest rocks and examine them with my magnifying glass, hoping to find hidden treasures.
This is how I learn about dinosaurs that lived in the past.

The excavation site

An excavation site is where we dig.
It's like a treasure chest for scientists!
Here, we find all kinds of dinosaur remains.
Could there be clues in this rock?

Petey the Pigeon follows us throughout the book. Can you find him each time you turn a page?
