

Little Tractor lives on Big Oak Farm. Lili the trailer is his best friend.
He has many animal friends, too: Laura the duck, Leo the pig,
Jules the dog, Annette the chicken, and Anton the horse.

Today, Little Tractor returns from the pasture covered in mud.
“I’m sick of the rain,” he grumbles. “And it’s so cold out!”
“Well, Little Tractor, it’s fall,” says Annette.

“It’s already getting dark!
I miss the summer.”
“Don’t worry,” says Annette,
“it’ll be back next year.”
“I don’t like fall,” sighs Little Tractor.

The next day, Anton says, “We need to get firewood before the snow flies.”

Jules agrees: “Could you and Lili fetch wood from the pond with the old birches, Little Tractor?”

“That’s too far,” sighs Little Tractor.

“I don’t know how to get there.”

Laura draws a map and hands it to Annette.

“Leo and I will go with you, Little Tractor,”

Annette says. “I’m a great navigator!”

“Enjoy the trip,” says Jules.

“The forest is beautiful in the fall!”
