

An illustration of an underwater scene. On the left, a white fish with a yellow and orange gradient on its head and a single tail fin swims towards the right. Two small blue bubbles trail behind it. On the right, an orange snail with two antennae and a yellow shell is partially visible, peeking out from behind a large, dark grey rock. The background is black, with green seaweed-like plants on the left and bottom, and a green hill-like shape at the bottom right.

“And snail has
two antennae.”

“You can count everything!”
says Little White Fish.
“I have one tail.”

What else do you see two times on this page?